AT THE REX

Friday and Saturday
WINGS—Passed "U"

We would like all the town people to come to "Wings" on Friday night, as there is only one "performance" each night, and it will greatly help us to accommodate Saturday night's crowd. Come early and avoid the rush. Show starts at 8.15.

"WINGS" THE MASTER
AIR SPECTACLE

"Wings" an entirely different picture. It's a story of the aeroplane, this modern invention, to build up his dramatic situations, and, indeed, he has succeeded. The spectator is thrilled throughout the entire picture. It is difficult for one to describe the thrill one feels the sight of one plane attacking another group and later seeing more planes, downed, and falling to the earth in flames. They are magnificent sights—they are, in fact, so magnificent, so impressive, so thrilling, that it is doubtful if one could feel more excited even if one were to watch actual aeroplane battles.

The "Wings" Road Show Production carries its own musical director Mr. Geo. Beattie, of New York and scores together with special synchronized sound effects. One is positively carried away by this Master Epic of the Air. It is difficult for one to describe the thrills and emotions one feels when one hears and sees this Production. The music and sound effects are absolutely the same as heard in all the leading cities of Canada and United States.

Your only opportunity to hear and see this spectacle this season will be at the Rex Theatre, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 28th and 29th. There will be a Matinee both days, Friday at 4 p.m. and Saturday at 2.30 p.m. The evening shows both nights will start at 8.15.

Monday and Tuesday
Florence Vidor
"The Magnificent Flirt"

First she flirts and runs away, then she flirts another day—and that's another story. This gorgeous, scintillating, captivating creature of the mad Parisian social whirl tosses her heart into the matrimonial ring.

DECLINE IN PRICE IS OVERSTRESSED

The current commercial letter is sued by the Canadian Bank of Commerce discusses the recent sharp slump in wheat prices and the possible effect on general business in the western provinces during the next year. The view is taken that too much stress is being laid on the price decline and not enough on certain other alleviating factors.

The yield of new wheat in the Northern Hemisphere, east of Russia, China and Asia Minor, is much larger than last year, while growing conditions in the two principal producing countries in the Southern Hemisphere Argentina and Australia, are said to be favorable. In Europe, the total yield is estimated as slightly higher than in 1927, and the quality somewhat better. To offset this, in all of the importing countries over there with the exception of Italy, the crops are smaller than a year ago, and it is reasonable to suppose that their purchases, because of reduced crops and improved economic conditions will be of greater volume than in any previous season. A substantial reduction in the European crops of rye and potatoes, which are used as substitutes for wheat, is also reported.

The yield of wheat in the United States, the letter points out, has been officially placed at 891,000,000 bushels, about 20,000,000 bushels higher than in 1927 and well above the average, but the increase over last year will be partly offset by the lower quality of the greater part of the kind of wheat grown for export. There should also be taken into consideration that about 80,000,000 bushels of the American crop is durum wheat which is not suitable for bread-making, while at least 25,000,000 bushels of this type have been grown in Canada, making over 100,000,000 bushels that might well be deducted from the North American crops when importing countries consider the sources of supplies of bread grains.

In summing up the general outlook, the letter says:

"It appears that every indication favorable to the production of the world's crop has been utilized to the full to affect the market and, indeed, that the importance of some of these indications has been overstressed. At present it can be assumed that prices will be lower than in the 1927-28 season, but trend during the last two months should not be taken as having definitely established the average level during the current season. So far as lower prices would affect the Canadian wheat grower, it should be kept in mind that this year's crop will probably be the largest ever harvested and that it is likely to be of good quality and that the prospects are for comparatively low harvest expenses. The situation as a whole is in contrast with that of 1927 when Canadian wheat was generally low grade and when the prolonged harvest season made the crop an unduly expensive one to handle. However, livestock prices, which are now high and are likely to continue, will afford some compensation for lower returns on wheat."

RUSSIAN INDUSTRIAL REVOLUTION

It was inevitable that Russia would eventually come back into the Family of Nations, and though the way may be sinuous and difficult, the constraining power of necessity must sooner or later compel return. Great in area and population, unwieldy in strength for any political change, economic influence must determine policy and movement. Russia has yet some distance to go before it can be stated the mighty nation has arrived, but events of late suggest motion at a more rapid rate than might have been expected a year ago.

Russia suffered severely in the Great War and was for that reason an easier victim for the theorist, Lenin, and his aides than otherwise might have been. The long, hard road of Czarist rule had created in the Slavs an intense longing for the dawn of better days, hence the masses were open to listen, and though never convinced, were ushered into the new conditions under an iron rule, scarcely less severe than that from which they had been redeemed.

Up to the end of the Kerensky regime, the total amount borrowed by the Russian governments for the war was twenty billion dollars. The number of men killed in action is given at 1,700,000; the wounded at three million and missing or prisoners at two million. The nation had lost so much in blood and treasure that it was no longer equal to choice, it had to follow the strongest leaders who could enforce their will.

The step from Czarism to communism was not so long as it would be for a western individualist and capitalist state. Therefore, the announcement that it will for the future be the public policy of Russia to make concessions to foreign capital and encourage private enterprise, backed by foreign capital, means that the new Russia will within a decade or two be more advanced than Russia under the old regime could have been had it survived.

As a result of the change of policy, two consequences must come to pass: (1) The government of Russia must cease to interfere in the domestic affairs of other nations, and (2) that being the case, there will be an altered attitude on the part of the other nations towards Russia. Great Britain and the United States have been holding Russia off until such time as there is evidence of the new awakening, which apparently is in sight. To what extent and at what time these nations will manifest any change in their policy is still a question remains to be seen. But it is most likely neither one will be inclined to neglect early advantages in trade and concessions, so it will be interesting to watch developments.

Capitalists and promoters will not wait for governments to make-up but will be ready to look into the situation, and examine the information being prepared for nations in their own language which suggests England will receive very special notice since capital is wanted.

Russia has been a buyer of Canadian grain and flour in recent years, and has all along been an importer of farm implements. Trade in this latter line of products amounted to $600,000 for the twelve months ending with July. In the event of conditions showing substantial improvement in Russia over a long period, the market for farm implements should have been inviting and profitable. Automobiles, tractors, trucks, electrical supplies should be in demand in ever larger volume. No doubt Canadian traders and producers will be active to protect their interests and assure a fair share for themselves in this new era which should be ahead for Russia.

Once it is a fact that foreign capital is invested in Russian enterprises and labor is employed, wages to be paid in currency, there will be an influence at work in currency competition with the state owned industries which should act as a lever to lessen the tyranny of the ruling class and widen the economic life of the Russian people.

Noxious Weeds Notice!

Noxious weeds from mature plants are spread by the wind. Hand pull and burn all such plants. Burn any ripe blossoms of Sow Thistle and Canada Thistle that you may find.

Require all threshing machines, combines, wagons and racks used at the time of threshing, to be thoroughly cleaned before moving on to your farm or leaving it.

Gather and burn all weed seeds left on the ground after threshing. See that your summerfallow goes into winter "black."

Attend to this or much of the good work that has been done in weed control and eradication will be undone.

Your co-operation in the campaign for a "weed free province" is solicited.

Register all threshing machines and combines with the Department of Agriculture.

Thousands of buyers, measuring what others offer at or near this price, find this newest Chrysler product giving far more dollar-for-dollar value in full size, in style and in every phase of performance, than any of the few other cars in the lowest-priced group.

For no other than the Chrysler-Plymouth gives for style the new chromium-plated slender-profile radiator, the new type fenders, the pleasing new arched-window silhouette. No other gives for comfort and elegance, such full-sized, roomy, luxuriously upholstered and finely fitted bodies.

No other gives for performance true high compression through the "Silver-Dome" high-compression engine using any fuel and for safety, the surety and ease of light-acting, internal-expanding hydraulic four-wheel brakes with squeak-less moulded brake linings.

No other assures the sturdy dependability and long life with freedom from trouble which Chrysler Standardized Quality builds into each and every Chrysler.

And these are only a few of the features unique to Plymouth which are convincing thousands upon thousands that the Plymouth is the standard whereby to judge values in the lowest-priced field—that anything less than the Plymouth gives is less than your dollar's worth.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

The election of a President of the United States, while no concern of any Canadian is, nevertheless a matter which greatly interests most of the people living on this side of the line. We are all kept in such close touch with what is going on in the United States through our newspapers and sheets, our magazines and their, and the entertainments of various kinds which they send us, that we have almost come to regard it as a correct and necessary thing to take the deepest interest in our neighbor's affairs. It is because of this that throughout Canada people are following the fortunes of "Al" and Mr. Hoover.

The fact that one candidate is usually referred to as we refer to him, that is, as Al, while the other candidate is Mr. Hoover, is one of the most significant facts of the Presidential election. Governor Smith starts with a handicap because of his party affiliations but more than makes up for it by the large measure of personal popularity he enjoys. Hoover is widely known and revered and has the prestige of the Republican party behind him, but has little of popular appeal, that is, as a vote-getter. It will be vote-getting that will count on election day.

Whether the fact of Governor Smith being a Roman Catholic will materially affect his chances of victory remains yet to be seen. While theoretically every American citizen, if born in the United States, is eligible for the Presidency, no Roman Catholic has yet occupied that position. With many thousands of people Mr. Smith's religious belief will be sufficient to stamp him as an impossible candidate. Yet there will probably be many other thousands opposed in religious faith to the New York Governor who will not permit the question to govern their electoral attitude to him. It seems on the face of it that if a man's religion is no bar to his citizenship, neither should it be to his occupancy of any elective office. Canada, at any rate, has had a Roman Catholic Prime Minister without any ill consequences following. Certainly we who are Protestants should be the last to make religion, or even lack of religion a political disability.

The question that will probably decide the election of President will be prohibition. The remarkable feature of the campaign is that the President whoever he may be can have little effect on the eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution. Al Smith could not repeal the Amendment and would be sworn to enforce it. What, after all, will be likely to decide who will occupy the Presidential chair is prosperity and it will be claimed that the Republican and Prohibition are more likely to bring prosperity than will the Democratic party and liquor. This is the view likely to win out from all the signs. So far few people have recognized the tremendous part that the abolition of the saloon has played in creating prosperity but as that view is brought to the attention of the voters, especially the women voters, the more and better chances will Hoover have of success.

Here and There

The biggest day for grain handling that the port of Montreal has experienced this season was recorded on August 21st. When the elevators went well over the 2,000,000 bushel mark for the 24 hours, and receipts were recorded at nearly 1,500,000 bushels, a total handling of 3,500,000 bushels for one day.

The almost complete absence of forest fires with their smoke screens marred scenic effects—the brilliant clearness of the air in this region has made the present tourist season the best on record in British Columbia. Many touring parties travelled over the Canadian Pacific lines, some breaking the journey to motor over the picturesque Banff-Windermere Highway. Among other groups may be mentioned the Alpine Club of Canada, which held its camp at the Lake of the Hanging Glacier, followed by the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies.

Approximately 250 new elevators have been constructed throughout Alberta this year. It is estimated by local grain men that the total capacity of these elevators would be about 18,000,000 bushels. It was stated. Complete figures for elevator construction in the province were not available, but grain men stated that extension of facilities had been progressing rapidly in all parts of Alberta. The capacity of the elevators varied from 25,000 bushels to 140,000 bushels. The Alberta Wheat Pool alone has 110 grain elevator companies have increased and practically all the public grain elevator companies have increased their storage capacity.

For the first season in a number of years the Nipigon trout may be said to abound. Hydro-development with accompanying fluctuations in water levels, threatened extinction of this exceptionally game fish, but the careful regulation of the past three seasons has apparently restored the world's most famous trout stream to something of its old standing. Six guests of the Bungalow Camp brought in 125 pounds of fish yesterday, counting a fair number of four and five-pound trout caught mostly at the entrance to Lake Polly. Pike and pickerel still abound in large numbers, so it is thought that the restoration of the water level rather than the destruction of natural enemies has brought back the Nipigon trout.

Entirely new and important schemes involving large expenditures on the part of the Canadian Pacific Railway in the placement of British colonies upon the land, are to be undertaken through the Department of Colonization and Development of that company, working in co-operation with the Overseas Settlement Committee of the British Government. The details of these schemes have been negotiated during the present visit to Canada of Lord Lovat, Under Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs and chairman of the Overseas Settlement Committee. On undertaking provides for the building of one hundred cottages by the Canadian Pacific for the use of British families. They will be used to make families accustomed to Canadian conditions and farm life before being established on farms of their own.

BILLY ARMSTRONG

The youngest piper in Canada, who blew himself to the Highland gathering at Banff. See him smiling—and the rows of medals and 'a'. Billy may be good, but he has a long way to go, for, 'tis said, bagpipes and the violin are unique in this respect, no performer on either instrument has never finished learning. Harold Eustace Keys, musical director for the Canadian Pacific Railway, who contributed largely to the success of the Banff festival, and who is in the picture, in that statement, added that another point is that the bagpipes are a certain index of a player's physical and emotional condition.

OUR PARTY LABELS

Ontario is regarded as the Banner Conservative Province of Canada, and so far as labels are concerned it is true that Quebec, on the other hand, is the Foremost Liberal Province, judged by the party color of its legislature and House of Commons representation. Yet, if judged by ideas and ideals Ontario is a Liberal province and Quebec Conservative. Indeed in many respects, Ontario might be considered as the "Red" province of Canada, which is said here with no disrespect. Is it not possible that we have all been misled by the respective labels carried by our two largest provinces?

Consider the attitude of Ontario on nearly all public questions except that of tariff. Apart from its fealty to Protection, Ontario is really radical. Its attitude on the question of public ownership alone would certainly stamp it in the eyes of "St. James Street" which is "latter-end" in Toryism—as the opposite of Conservatism, rather as violently radical. Quebec, per contra, will have nothing to do with public ownership except of the liquor monopoly. It is not argued here that public ownership is essentially a Liberal doctrine, so far as Liberalism can be judged by its Canadian setting, but if "the greatest good of the greatest number" is sound Liberal doctrine, as is claimed, then public ownership is an expression of Liberalism. Yet Quebec abhors it, while Ontario hugs it.

In regard to all social legislation, Ontario is far in advance of its sister province. (Without enumerating the various measures aimed at social amelioration which have been adopted in Ontario, it can safely be asserted that the statute books of the great Conservative Province testify to its inherent Liberalism while the laws of the Province of Quebec stamp the home of Jean Baptiste as reactionary—Conservative beyond almost any possibility of change. Only very tardily has Quebec adopted a compulsory Workmen's Compensation Act and, even in doing so, has seen to it that the business of insuring workpeople against accidents is to be in the hands of privately-owned insurance companies.

The sound, progressive legislation adopted by Ontario in regard to women is another proof of its progressivism or Liberalism. While Quebec women still await women's suffrage and have no right to vote in Provincial elections their sisters in Ontario have long held the right and exercised it. And what marks the essential Liberalism of the one and the undeniable Conservatism of the other province is the fact that Ontario women wanted the vote, but Quebec women are indifferent about it. It is a difference of temperament. The French-Canadian people are instinctively Conservative. Ontario people more prone to social experiment and ready to uproot customs and habits that may become socially undesirable.

If we care to cast our thoughts back to past years, it will be recalled that once upon a time, as the story-tellers say, Quebec was strongly Conservative politically, while Ontario was equally strong in its Liberalism. What has changed? Not the political beliefs of the people, but largely through dissatisfaction with political leaders, the people changed the labels while retaining the principles. Ontario overthrew a Liberal administration long-lived and elected a Conservative one, but remained Liberal. Quebec turned out the Conservative "rascals" when their conduct became too hot to stand any longer, and put in some other labelled Liberals, but the Quebecers remained Conservative at heart which makes us ask, what is there in politics anyhow?

"DIVINE DISCONTENT"

There is much virtue in the phrase. Discontent with wrong conditions, which is the thought implicit in the phrase, divine discontent, must and can only be of divine origin. Life is progressive, ever moving on to higher achievements, to greater betterment, to improved conditions. That is the Divine plan. But, working through human agency, the Divinity which shapes our ends, could not work out His plan as He has planned out his work unless in human beings there was dissatisfaction with prevailing backward conditions. Discontent is at the root of progress, it is indeed the great impelling motive of all progress. The moment we become satisfied with things as they are that moment we come stagnant intellectually, socially and morally.

Let us be discontented with ourselves if we have not reached out and attained the ideals we set before us. It may be that we have aimed at securing wealth and are now earning but fifty dollars per week and are content. No use of blaming anyone but ourselves, nor any condition except the condition we find within. Had we been discontented with poverty and lack we should have left the condition behind us long ago. But, somehow or other, we came to believe that poverty was our portion, that there was not enough wealth in the world to allow of our getting any more than our weekly pittance and so we became contented. "Contented cows," as the milk ads. have it. We should realize that this is a world of abundance, with plenty for everybody. It may be badly divided and shared up. Some may have hogged more than their share, but that was only because they had better ideas of prosperity than we did, and they were discontented with poverty. We are as we think we are. Thinking prosperity will bring us prosperity; thinking poverty will keep us there. A divine discontent with poverty in the hearts and minds of the Canadian people would make them what they ought to be in this rich land which is Canada, the most prosperous people of God's earth.

Be discontented with sickness and disease, likewise. Health is our flesh. We speak of the "ills that flesh is heir to." That is all bunk. We are heirs to no ills. Every atom and molecule in our bodies changes every few years, say the scientists. Then how can we inherit any sickness or disease? It is in our minds that we are sick, not in our bodies. And we are sick because we are content to be sick. As people say sometimes, "we enjoy poor health." A good, wholesome discontent with sickness, and disease, and a good, wholesome determination to be well and strong will make and keep us in health, better than any medicine can do. The doctor is a good friend and may be necessary in many cases, but the modern doctor is the first to tell us that if we would be well we must think health. Be divinely discontented with disease and you may live for ever.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

That city life is not morally the most healthy atmosphere in the upbringing of families is indicated by the fact that the majority of offenders appearing in the Canadian juvenile courts during 1927 were in 32 principal cities.

The fact is brought to light in the Report on Juvenile Delinquency just published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. In the year under review, the report sets out, there were 7550 boys and 635 girls convicted of delinquency as against 7259 boys and 572 girls in 1926. "There was thus in 1927 an increase of 4.01 per cent. in the grand total of boys and 11.01 per cent. in the grand total of girls convicted," the report points out. "The increases among boys convicted for major and minor offences were 2.3 and 7.16 per cent respectively. Girls convicted for major offences decreased by 17.13 per cent, but those convicted for minor offences increased by 35.6 per cent."

It is encouraging to note that the increase in major offences was only slightly over one per cent, and the record of 1926 in this regard was only one per cent. over the record in 1925. "Youthful robbers, burglars and thieves constituted in 1927 78.76 per cent. of the major delinquents. "The proportion for 1926 was 80.9 per cent., in 1925, 79.72 per cent. and in 1924 76.24 per cent. indicating steadiness in the types of delinquency," the report comments.

It is also interesting to learn that of those convicted of major offences Canadian born of Canadian parents averaged less than 45 per cent. of the total for the year, while 25 per cent. were Canadian-born of foreign born parents and less than 12 per cent. were Canadian-born of British-born parents.

A study with reference to the population discloses that the Canadian-born of foreign-born parents produce the greatest percentage of delinquents, i.e., 95 per 10,000 (between ages of 10 to 20) population. Those of British-born parents (out of Canada) are next with 62 per cent. The Canadians of Canadian-born parents show 19.8 per 10,000. It is notable, however, that British and foreign-born children produce the smallest ratio of delinquents, i.e., 8.8 and 13.1 per cent. respectively. This bears out the impression that it is the children of the first generation in this country which supply the most difficult problem. In the analysis of foreign-born delinquents, those of Polish came a bad first with 306 per 10,000 population. Austrian is next with 290, Italian 259, Russian 103 and German 14.

Grade 5 furnishes the greatest number of delinquent boys and grade 4 the girls, although the girls are on the average slightly older than the boys. The greatest number of delinquents is at the age of 14 with but a slight falling off at 15. Taking the age of the greatest number with the grade standing of the greatest number, there is evidence of retardation, indicating that the delinquent is not only a problem in society at large, but also in the school.

FOR BETTER ROADS

Dear Sir: From 65 years observation, I have proved that single wheel trucks and 3 inch tire wagons have ruined all roads that have been built in the last 65 years. This old means of traffic cuts and slashes and makes ruts and holes. You may ask, why this has been going on for 65 years. The answer is "It has been every body's business and nobody's business." It should be somebody's business by this time. The remedy I would suggest is to compel all motor trucks to use double flat wheels, wide enough to carry the loads, and wagons to have six inch tires, the hind wheels set to track outside the front, and they will pack the roads and leave the water standing on top and make no mud holes. This was tested out in California by myself in 1876 and proved successful. This system will make good roads and keep roads in good shape, and the upkeep would be very low. I also recommend a tax on all single wheel trucks and narrow tired wagons, and the money so collected put in a road fund or used to bonus double wheel trucks or wide tired wagons and wide sleighs. Balcon tires do not damage any packed road, and I do not think anyone with common sense can find any argument against my idea. Yours truly, Ludwig Larsen, Blackfalds.

A WORK OF ART

The finding of the coroner's jury in the Hobbs case at the Ponoka Mental Hospital, while apparently right in placing the blame on Scott the attendant, is worthy of a place in history for its other findings. "The Superintendent and management" is absolved from all blame; of course, and Russell Lord, a young attendant, who had been on the staff for a very few days, and who reported the affair to the Hospital Management, was censured for not reporting sooner. When it is known that Lord reported as soon as he knew what to do, and was nearly killed for doing so by a bunch of attendants, censuring this young man "seems a bit thick", on the part of a jury composed of Ponoka businessmen. Attaching "riders" to verdicts is an obsolete piece of business, and it is about time that the law in this respect was changed. "Riders" are usually a joke, anyway, and seldom have any bearing on the case in hand, and are usually used as "white-wash."

LOCHINVAR NEWS

Mr. Dean Reynolds is quite seriously ill. His mother is at home taking care of him.

Mr. Fred Roy has his niece and nephew visiting with him.

Ask Alex and Harry if half past eight is too early or too late for them.

Mr. Archibald and Company machine, is doing good quick, satisfactory work in many ways. Threshing is finished quickly and neatly.

Mr. John Taylor has finished grain cutting.

Mr. Herbert Riley has begun threshing now.

There were a number of mills at work in a very close vicinity the other day.

Nagel's machine at Stuber's.

Kerber's machine at Pearson's.

Bailey's machine at Henderson's.

Long's machine at H. Long's.

Archibald's & Co. at E. Riley's.

Ogilvie's machine at Ogilvie's.

Hoar's machine at Hoar's.

Riley's machine at Riley's.

Phyllis machine at Hemeyer's.

Maulsby's machine at F. Maulsby's.

All these machines in the very short space of a few miles made a great shortage of threshing help.

Miss Lily Archibald has been riding horseback to school lately.

A slight snowstorm and rain in some places and heavy rain and hail in others, prevented the continuation of threshing on Sept. 19th.

MEADOWBROOK NEWS

Mrs. Herbert Long was pleasantly surprised last Friday, when two of her cousins, Bryon and Leon Cooper dropped in for dinner. One has returned from Athens, Pa. to San Francisco, where he left his sister to catch the boat back to China to resume his missionary work, after a holiday with her parents. There he got his brother who had just returned from China as a commander of the soldiers there.

The two brothers then proceeded north to Castor to visit their two brothers, and one sister; from here they are going back to Athens.

The many threshing mills will soon finish up the threshing around this neighborhood, if the weather will only stay fine.

Miss Violet Richards has landed from Wales and is staying at Mrs. James Spink's.

Sunday, Sept. 30 is Rally Day. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to make this one of the largest attendances yet.
